

Empowering women in Agriculture – Transfer of Plant Tissue Culture Technology to Rural Women

C.G. Bhakta Institute of Biotechnology organized one day event on, “Empowering women in Agriculture – Transfer of Plant Tissue Culture Technology to Rural Women” on August 8, 2015 (Saturday). Prof. Dr. R. Krishnamurthy and his colleagues have demonstrated plant tissue culture technologies and other innovative methods for Banana and Sugarcane farming to rural women. 25 women have participated in this program. In the morning session, the theoretical concepts of Plant Tissue Culture was explained to the participants by the experts. In the afternoon session live on demo session was arranged to the rural women farmers. Further the technical session highlighted the following aspects.

SESSION INCLUDED:

- Introductory lecture with power point presentation of "State - wise Production and Productivity of Banana in India" & "Large scale production of Disease free and Quality Banana and sugarcane plants through Tissue Culture Technique".
- Demonstration of Plant Tissue Culture Technology
- Visit to Centre for Plant Tissue Culture.

